

Extension to Queen Victoria School, Dunblane, Stirling

TPS were commissioned by Schal to design a new extension at Queen Victoria School, providing residential accommodation for first time female pupils.

The form of the existing building imposed certain constraints on the external character of the new block which were exploited using modern materials by TPS.

The location of the new extension also offered a much-needed opportunity to terminate the gable ended wavel block in a more satisfactory way. Jim Sharp and Alan Tapp, Bursers at the school expressed their “happiness and appreciation to the Project Design Team” following the handover.
